Medical Woman: the magazine for female doctors

Please click here to view an online copy of the magazine.

The Medical Women's Federation (MWF) has redesigned their magazine Medical Woman, to bring more relevant content in a contemporary style to Medical Women of the 21st Century.

The MWF has been working for women's health and women doctors since 1917 and is today the largest and most influential body of women doctors in the UK. Medical Woman has been published and distributed to members of the MWF since the charity was first set up and during that time Medical Woman has taken many different forms; a newsletter, bulletin, journal and now a magazine and online e-zine. The Editor, Dr Sara Khan, Officers and staff have worked hard to create a fresh new look for the magazine relevant to both practising and retired female medical doctors.

Articles include:

- The Mummy Diaries
- Women at the Top
- Tips to get females to the top
- Clinical Commissioning
- Egg Freezing
- And our new fictional character Dr Iona Frock

A note from the Editor:

"I'm really pleased with the end result of the magazine, and hope it is well received by the female medical community. There is no other magazine of its kind, and we have worked hard to make it appeal to female doctors of all specialities and at all levels, from medical student to Consultant."

Dr Sara Khan , GP and Medical Woman Editor

Our members have already received the first copies of Medical Woman, here's what they have to say:

'The new look 'Medical Woman' is a compelling and inspiring read . Apart from its startling and beautiful cover, its lay out is excellent - for both a digital and hard copy read. It covers topical subjects in the NHS, practical and current issues of interest , controversy in the form of debate, science in an easy and digestible manner, top tips and global experiences! Nowhere else will you get this breadth of information for a medical woman at any level or age. The editor and the editorial team should be warmly congratulated on this excellent production!'

Professor Parveen Kumar, MWF Vice President

"I have just spent a happy hour leafing through the spring/summer issue of Medical Woman! Wonderful! I just wanted to congratulate you on this effort. Clearly a huge amount of work so I wanted you to know it has been worth it. Can't wait for the next issue!"

Narciss Okhravi, Consultant. London
